Support Sargent

EDITORIAL DCJ

For the first time in memory, a Governor has proposed to take action against the overwhelming tide of socialism which threatens every working person in the country. Governor Sargent, in a rare display of political courage, chose for his first news conference to act against the mushrooming cost of Medicaid. This concept has been sacred until recently. The great cost has always exceeded the increases in taxes which are coming in a continuous series of jumps. The exposure of the widespread abuses of this experiment in socialized medicine has also done much to reduce the glamour of this Liberal's cause. The Governor can now expect to be the target for a concentrated campaign by those who administer or profit by this unlimited (so far) bonanza. Wouldn't it be great if he were also the target for an unorganized flood of messages of support and congratulations from those people in the Commonwealth who are footing the bills. A simple postcard message from those taxpayers who are concerned about the skyrocketing cost of government might very well result in a turning of the tide. Officials and representatives in government have been pressured for years

The Tower of Strength

"HISTORY OF FORT PHOENIX"

by Donald R. Bernard

Part XII

Following the departure from Bedford Harbor by the British, our story returns to Fort Phoenix. A few days later the members of the garrison returned to the fort and it was said by those men that were taken prisoners and later released that the British force numbered at about five thousand five hundred. This, it is presumed, included the number composing the crews of several of the vessels. A letter that was written in 1874 by the late Jabez Delano, a noted antiquarian, states that the fort was destroyed at about noon on Sunday. The fort was then abandoned after the conflagration and deemed useless in its devastated condition.

The fort's commander, Captain Timothy Ingraham, some years later, was buried in the old cemetery adjacent to the area now known as Bay Village, in New Bedford. Most historians have accepted the statements of Elijah Macomber as being most factual. He was a member of the fort's garrison and was twenty-one years old at the time. He died

For his important services in the Revolutionary War, he was given the rank of Lieutenant General and appointed commander-in-chief in North America in January, 1783. He was employed in Flanders in 1793; captured Martinique and Saint Lucia in 1794; was made General in 1795; was raised to the peerage in 1801 and in 1806 became an Earl; he died November 14, 1807 at his seat near Alnwick, Northumberland.

At one o'clock on September 21, 1777, about two miles southwest of Paoli, Pa. General Grey surprised General Wayne with about fifteen hundred men, who had been detached from Washington's Army after the battle of Brandywine, to annoy the British rear and attempt to cut off their wagon train. His orders were then to rush on the Americans with fixed bayonets without firing a shot, and give no quarter. Wayne's loss was one hundred and fifty killed and wounded. The remainder retreated in confusion toward Chester.

On October 4, 1777, General Grey commanded a large portion of the left wing at the battle of Germantown.

At midnight, September 27, 1778, he surprised a regiment of light horse under Lieutenant Colonel Baylor, encamped in barns about 2 1/2 miles southwest of Tappan, New York. They were sleeping in unsoldierly security, and when captured, asked for quarter, which was inhumanely refused by Grey, who gave special orders not to grant it. Many of the soldiers were bayoneted in cold blood. Out of one hundred and forty persons, sixty-seven were killed or wounded, and seventy horses were foolishly butchered.

General Grey, on account of his common practice of ordering men under his command to take the flints out of their muskets that they might be confined to the use of bayonets, acquired the name "the no-flint General". He was a man of undoubted courage.

Earl Grey's son and successor in the Earldom was a distinguished statesman and cabi-

Comprehensive burner service contract covers annual check-up and adjustment plus other cost-saving services

OUR COMPREHENSIVE BURNER SERVICE CONTRACT helps guard you against heating worries. And it can lower heating costs these three important ways:

1. By making sure your burner is cleaned and adjusted for peak efficiency—to help give you maximum heat from every gallon of fuel.

2. By catching little troubles before they can become big ones.

A small adjustment or repair in your heating system now may save you many dollars later on.

3. By insuring you against unexpected repair bills. This makes sure you always get heat.

For complete details about our burner service contracts—and about our many other services—call us today at the number below.
